VOLUME XXXVI. NUMBER 50.

IRONTON, MO.

THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1903.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

How easily the rain comes these days.

Excursion to St. Louis next Sunday.

After all the promises, no new depot, it seems.

The 4th of July four weeks from Saturday.

The soldiers at the range have pay day this week.

A number of our people spent decoration day fishing.

June Festival at Workman's Hall, Graniteville, June 16th.

The City Assessor has completed his work of assessing the city.

The inclement weather interfered with the ball game Sunday.

May wasn't at all the delightful month that it generally is.

Tuesday was about as cold a June day as this section ever knew.

Two hundred custom made dress shirts, worth 75c, 25c at Bonanza.

The cowbell and the cow-splotch are leading characteristics of this town.

A coat of paint was put on the screen factory warehouse last week.

Bonanza has been greatly improved by some repairs made the past week.

The man who hasn't a smiling in the nose these days is weather-immune.

For reasonable rent, one upright piano. Enquire of Miss Baird, Arcadia, Mo.

Ice-cream and cake as usual on Thursday evening at the Dr. Blanks building.

It requires a rain about every third day to keep Ironton's streets from being dusty.

Remember we are still closing out our stock of dry goods and shoes. H. Barnhouse.

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. John Phayer, Arcadia, Mo., Tuesday, May 26th, 1903, a boy.

Again it is rumored that some local capitalists are thinking of starting another bank in Ironton.

WANTED—A good girl to do general house work at Kesling Hotel. Call and see Mrs. H. Block.

Dr. Goodykoontz last week sold the flour mill in Caledonia to John Bean and Dr. Eaton of Irondale.

All members of Sylvan Rebecca Lodge No. 185 are requested to be present Friday night June 6th.

FOR SALE—On any reasonable terms to a responsible party, a good organ. Call at this office for information.

We very greatly fear that the excess of rain in May will be followed by a drought in the hot, hot days of summer.

The Union miners give a picnic at Flat River next Saturday. It is said that several thousand men will be in line.

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Barnhouse, Ironton, Mo., on Friday, June 29, 1903, a daughter. All are doing well.

Arnold & Company, the get-rich-quick concern, closed its business last week by paying two per cent. to all creditors.

For some time past all our beef has been coming from St. Louis. It is rarely, if ever, that our butchers kill a beef these days.

How much longer does the railroad company expect us to put up with the miserable structure that serves for a depot at this place?

The suit of Ketcherside vs. Bollinger for damages for killing a couple of dogs will be tried before Squire Johnson at Des Arc Saturday.

Rev. A. D. Ball, P. E. of the Farmington district, will preach at the M. E. church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Also at Graniteville Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

A number of St. Louis people were in the Valley Sunday looking for accommodations for the summer. More private houses where board can be obtained are in demand.

H. B. Jones returned last week from a short sojourn in Arkansas. Mr. Jones says that high water is interfering materially with spring work in the vicinity of Newport.

The Modern Woodmen at Des Arc will give a Grand Picnic on July 4th. Arrangements are being made for a big time and those who attend are sure to enjoy themselves.

Since the fire last week we have heard several persons remark that we may not have a fire department but we've got as good fire fighters as any town in southeast Missouri.

J. O. Holt has been here about two weeks organizing a Lodge of Knights and Ladies of Honor. The organization will be perfected next Saturday with a fair charter membership.

LOST—Between Ironton and Graniteville a pocket book, containing $25 in bills together with some small change. Liberal reward for return of same.

O. E. McGEE Pilot Knob, Mo.

Ed. Bollinger was in town yesterday, having recently returned from Oklahoma, where he is engaged in teaching school. Mr. Bollinger will return to Oklahoma in about a month.

There was a Sunday School excursion on the railroad down in Dunklin County last Sunday. What, have the church and the Sunday excursion become reconciled? Surely, "the world do move."

The strike of the freight handlers in St. Louis the past two weeks seriously interfered with some of our merchants. For several days there were no goods shipped from St. Louis and the grocery supply here was getting short.

The Rebekah entertainment Committee of the Annapolis Lodge will give a grand picnic at Annapolis on Saturday, June 20th, 1903. A fine lot of amusements will be provided and all visitors are assured a good time.

The REGISTER is in receipt of the first copy of the Xenia, Ill., Budget, Filson & Broadwell, publishers and editors. The paper is printed on the ex-Eagle outfit removed from this place. The paper is independent in politics.

George Lester, who two years ago assaulted a preacher who had made some remarks about him was found guilty in the circuit court in Reynolds county last week and fined $125 and costs. It is said that the suit has cost Lester $700.

There will be the usual services at Fort Hill church next Sunday morning and evening. Also the 3rd Quarterly Conference of the Arcadia charge will be held on the 14th and 15th inst. Rev. J. R. A. Vaughn will preach the evening of the 14th.

Cuba is to vote on an electric light franchise on June 9th. Mr. L. C. Chambers the hustling and genial manager of the St. Louis Lumber & Store Co. at that place, will secure the franchise if adopted by the people. —Steelville Democrat.

Next Sunday a base ball team from Piedmont will come here and play a game with the soldiers. The following Sunday the soldiers will go to Piedmont to play a return game and on Sunday, June 21st, they will go to Poplar Bluff to play a game.

The condition of the road between Ironton and the Shut-In is deplorable. Is there no balm in Gilead? For years, this road was a favorite drive-way and the pride of our people, but now 'tis an abomination and conduces not to pleasure but profanity.

The young people have organized a dramatic company. The married folk meet next Tuesday night to perfect a similar organization. So in the near future we may expect shows by both the old and the young. May every participant be covered with glory.

John Harris one of the "bad" family of that name of St. Francois county was taken in custody at Graniteville last Thursday morning by Sheriff Polk and Constable Marshall. He was wanted in St. Francois county on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Thomas Keathly, of Lostville, was arrested before Squire Kitchell at Annapolis Tuesday morning on the charge of assaulting a young man by the name of Coleman at Sabula, on May 14th. Keathly entered a plea of guilty and was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $15.30 which he promptly paid.

The editor acknowledges the receipt of an invitation to attend the graduating exercises of the Rockford Hospital Training School for Nurses, Rockford, Illinois, Tuesday evening, June 4, 1903. Among the graduates is Miss Marie Gratiot of the Valley, and her many friends here wish her every success.

The formation of another dramatic club is on the tapis, to utilize the unemployed histrionic talent lying around loose and unrecognized in this town. An age limit doesn't go in the new formation, and the bars are down to young and old alike. Such a thing as a "back number" is unknown to its dramatic personae.

The editor acknowledges the receipt of an invitation from Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wheelock of Marion, Kansas, to attend the wedding of their daughter, Lillian, and Mr. Ferdinand Lawrence Immer, Tuesday evening, June 9th 1903, at eight o'clock P. M. Mr. Immer is a Pilot Knob boy, and has many friends in the old home who will join in wishing him every happiness.

H. M. Collins wishes the REGISTER to return his most sincere thanks to the good citizens of Ironton who fought so bravely and successfully to keep his barn from being destroyed by fire on the occasion of the conflagration in north Ironton on Tuesday night of last week. Mr. Collins says that had it not been for the good offices of his neighbors and friends his property would most assuredly have been destroyed.

The screen factory closed for the season last Wednesday and Mr. Moore leaves this week for his home in Hillsdale, Michigan. The season has been a very successful and profitable one. Mr. Moore says it is not likely that he will be back here as manager of the factory. He does say, however, that there is a bare possibility that he will come back to Ironton and build a factory of his own. We certainly hope that he may.

Fred Kindell, Jr., was in telephonic communication with his wife, who is visiting the family of W. A. Flowers in Eldon, Iowa, Tuesday evening. Evidently in the flooded district in Iowa and at the time Mrs. Kindell was telephoning the water was six feet deep in the lower story of the house and for several days they had to make their home in the second story. The waters are subsiding now, though, and no more danger is anticipated.

The party who picnicked on the St. Francis on Decoration Day had a fine time. All sorts of games and amusements were indulged in, even to heavy weight racing, notwithstanding the ground was so uneven, some were not standing at the finish. Some fish were caught, we are told, but that is the usual story. A kodak picture of one of the party out on a rock in mid stream, fishing under an umbrella, is in evidence that some fishing was done.

The Woodmen Camp of Ironton and the Arcadia Valley Cornet Band will jointly give a parade and picnic on the coming Fourth, and it no doubt will exceed in interest anything of the kind seen in this vicinity for years. Capt. Benson, commanding officer at the rifle range, has kindly consented to have the troops take part in the parade, and a sham battle will be fought during the day. This, as well as the march of three hundred cavalrymen in full equipment, will be well worth seeing. Other particulars of the celebration will be given in due time, and the affair will be fully advertised.

Class Lewis, Fred. C. Kitchell and Sim Douglas, three Annapolis boys, boarded a fast freight train at Piedmont Saturday evening, and in getting off the train at Annapolis Lewis had his arm broken and Kitchell had his head and face badly bruised. Douglas thought discretion the better part of valor and kept on the train until it stopped at Hogan and then walked back home in the rain. This riding of freight trains is a dangerous practice, and the boys should stop it.

A gang of painters have been at work the past week repainting the miserable structure that has for so long served as railroad station at this place. This probably means that we are not going to have a new depot notwithstanding the fact that the Superintendent assured us that we would have one in the near future. The present structure is wholly inadequate to the business done at this point and it is nothing short of outrageous if the company does not give us a new station house and that without delay.

A. J. Sheahan was in town this week arranging to get the charter for the railroad to contemplate building from Middlebrook to Graniteville for his quarry. Mr. Sheahan says that in the event he gets the road through, he expects to employ a much larger force at the quarry. He should be encouraged in his venture, and should have little trouble in getting the right of way for his proposed road. Mr. Sheahan says that there is a possibility of extending the road on from the quarry to Bellevue valley.

At Capo Girardeau, Mo., May 29th inst., H. Clay Clifton, while working in a railroad machine shop, was struck on the stomach with a flying piece of timber from a circular saw, knocking him some ten feet. He lived until the next morning 6:30 o'clock. H. C. Clifton was born and raised near Des Arc, Mo., where he had a host of friends. He was the son of Milton and Leannah Clifton. His wife, who survives him, is the daughter of Jas. Buford, and five small children—three girls and two boys—are left, with a large relationship, to mourn his sad demise.

Dr. J. R. Adams, who lives in the west end of the county, recently dug up a very peculiar coin while working in his garden. It is about as large as a nickel and very thin. On one side of the coin appears "Island of Sumatra, 1801," with two lions rampant, each holding a flag, and under the lions is some fine print which the Dr. could not cipher. On the other side are some hieroglyphics but no English characters. The Dr. says he thinks the coin is copper and he would like to hear from any one who can give him any information in regard to it.

Let a man die and he is suddenly full of good qualities, his faults are forgotten and only the good remembered. That is all right, but it will do him no good then. Why not pass over the short comings of the living while they are with you and you can do them good. Being kind to the dead means nothing—to them. Strew their coffins with flowers if you will, but the dead can not smell them. If you withhold the sweetness and sunshine of life from loved ones while they live do not mock them after they are gone by planting the rose over their tomb. Plant instead the thistle, and over it the weeping willow, as an emblem of your grief for the thorns you permitted to pierce the silent form that lies buried beneath the sod. —E.E.

The large saw mills at Grandin are at a standstill, and according to reports it may be some time before business is resumed, at least on an extensive scale. The report comes from Grandin that the laboring men of that place decided on organization recently and formed a union, after corresponding with the supreme lodge relative to the matter. When the mill company learned of this move it discharged some of the men who were active in working the matter up. The men went ahead, however, and perfected the organization. The company then posted notices that the union organization must be dissolved at once, or else the mills would close down. At this stage of the game the "risky" trainmen informed the company that if it compelled the union to dissolve they would handle their lumber. The company stood by the declaration and when the men refused to leave the organization the mills were ordered closed. The organization at Grandin consists of about 175 men, most of them having families, and the shut-down will work quite a hardship on them, while it will be a death-blow to business interests, as Grandin virtually relies on the timber workers for its existence. —Poplar Bluff Citizen.

The case of the State vs. Leslie Dooley et al, was called Monday morning, and was passed to the foot of the docket. This means that the case will be called again soon, possibly within two weeks, as it is thought that the criminal docket will be finished by that time. If anyone in the country knows of the whereabouts of the Dooley boys, who left their home shortly after the killing of Will Harris by Will Dooley on the Boone Terre train at Rock Springs, on July 9th, 1902, they have kept that knowledge to themselves. Since the killing of Harris, Bill Dooley has been seen but once in this county, shortly after the killing he was seen by Fred Scheek at Hamiltontown, about a mile from Doe Run. Leslie Dooley was in Farmington the early part of last August, but has not been here since. When the case was called at the November term of court, a search was made for the Dooleys in the neighborhood of Doe Run, but they could not be found. It was reported that they were in St. Louis and would be here for trial, but they did not appear. Their bonds are $3,000, each, a total of $6,000. That they will never come in voluntarily, is generally conceded, and as yet no effort known to the public has been made to locate them. —Farmington Times.

The decision in the case of the Southern Missouri vs. the Mississippi River in regard to the crossing at Elvins has been continued until June 1st. Railroad extensions and developments in St. Francois, Washington, Iron, Reynolds and other western counties depend largely upon the results of Judge Deering's decision in the case. The Southern Missouri has certainly encountered more difficulty in the way of obstructions and litigation, adverse decisions and injunctions than any other road of similar length ever built in the state. While the progressive capitalists are building a modern and most excellent railroad through to them, an expensive territory, a great part of which has no railroad development and has been sadly in need of some for many years, and in which all the people, excepting, of course, the corporate interests that the road has interfered with and who are so strenuously and viciously fighting their advent into this territory, would welcome as a great boon to the future development and upbuilding of this entire section of country. This case has heretofore been decided by our honorable judge in favor of the Southern Missouri, and the road would now be in operation had it not been for the much abused injunction. The people confidently hope and expect that the coming trial the same spirit of justice and fairness shall prevail and we predict that the whole of progress and development shall be no longer blocked. —Irondale Gazette.

[The decision has not yet, to our knowledge, been promulgated.—En. Register.] The following from Sunday's St. Louis Post-Dispatch tells of the proposed camp of the St. Louis Y. M. C. A. at Pilot Knob this summer: "Camp Ozark" to be opened by the Young Men's Christian Association as an outing place for its members, is said to possess all the characteristics of the typical camp except mosquitoes and malaria. Fishing, swimming, boating, good location, pure water and plenty to eat are the prime qualities of the camp, which is to be located in Arcadia Valley, 92 miles south of St. Louis. Its purpose is to furnish a place where young men who are members of the St. Louis association may spend their vacations, securing a genuine outing at little expense. The camp will be continued during July and possibly during August. Its exact location is on the slope of Pilot Knob, one of the highest points of the Ozarks, two miles from Ironton. A big spring of cool water rises from the center of the camp site and a creek of clear water flows at the base of the mountain. A lake near by furnishes good fishing and opportunity for boating. Iron mines, summer homes of wealthy St. Louisans, caves and good roads for long walks offer inducements for excursions across country, and the lay of the land is adapted for tennis, baseball, quoits and other games. Secretary Brownell and Assistant Secretary Lute of the Central branch, assisted by George Pollock, Jr., and Arthur Huff resident manager of the Big Muddy Coal and Iron Co., which owns the land, recently selected the site. Two old cottages on the ground are to be used for dining hall and kitchen, and one will also be used as a recreation room and shelter on rainy days. Tents, 5x7 feet, with permanent floors and two cots each, will be used for sleeping quarters. Neighboring farmers will supply eggs, milk, vegetables and chickens for the table. Board and tent accommodations will cost $5 a week for those who stay one week or longer, and $1 a day for those staying less than a week."

Last Sunday a party of six—all of the inferior sex—took a car-ride to Middlebrook and made a formal call upon Wm. Trauericht, Esq. For some time trouble had been brewing between Mr. T. and one of the visiting party—not singular, perhaps, since the latter belongs to a Brewing Association, and 'tis his vocation to brew, while the aforesaid party of the first part is not adverse to a little brew himself, time and circumstances conformed—and this call was the culmination. Dressed in our Sunday best—you ought to have seen the big fiddle, whose polished, two-story tile and down-sweeping overcoat justified Mr. T.'s criticism that he "looked like the manager of a busted show"—we six, I take it, made quite a goodly showing when we debarked from the "smoker" and took our way to the host's residence. Here we were warmly welcomed by him and the goodwife, and were soon "at home." After a little music which brought the big fiddle and the host to more congenial mood, although the former still stubbornly refused to "talk," the hostess called us to dinner and we did eat—the b. f. relaxing his tactfulness and doing his fair share to the good things before us. It was a mighty good dinner and we did ample justice to it. The repast concluded we adjourned to the front porch and resolved ourselves into a committee of the whole to take into consideration and patch up, if we could, the disturbing difference between the two gentlemen above noted. After considerable effort and a little lubrication, this was happily accomplished, and the remainder of our limited time was devoted to making each other satisfied with the world and ourselves. Here, too, our efforts were crowned with success. A visit was paid to the mother of the host, living just across the way. I was once an inmate of her household when a boy—I'm not going to tell you how many years have passed since then—and recall her as she was at that time: the happy young wife and mother. Since then the husband, who was one of nature's noblemen, has passed into realms eternal, and the children of her care have grown into mature men and women and are busy with the duties of life. The mother, though nearing fourscore years, is still hale and active, mentally and physically. She cares for herself and her household, and prides in doing so. Attached to her dwelling is as pretty a flower-garden as the county can boast, and it is the result of her own taste and work. May many years yet be hers! Returning to Mr. T.'s domicile, his better-half set out a lunch and insisted on our partaking; not that much insistence was necessary, for we were willing guests. With a little more music, a song or two, and a libation to good fellowship, the visit came to a conclusion just in time to catch the train for home. It may not be out of place to state that the conversational power and inclination of the b. f. had fully returned before the "good-byes" were said, and the partings were taken in kindness and brotherly love.

Mr. Brooks and "Isaac."

PILOT KNOB, Mo., June 1, 1903.

Ed. Register:—Please allow me space to reply to "Isaac." It says when Brooks was at Des Arc he had had luck; that Mr. Elgar kicked him, out of the window. Brooks may be "windy," but he pays his honest debts. He also attends to his own business, and perhaps it would be better for "Isaac" if he did the same. In conclusion I will state that I was not kicked out of the window or door either, and that I am ready for "Isaac" if he wants to come again.
